it appears that the more we can recognise such feelings and the safer the containing environment is to share them in, the safer the patient is